

Fair Employment Week (October 27-31, 2014): Take Action!

How fair is it to be as qualified as your colleagues, but getting paid less simply because you do not have a permanent job?

How would you feel if you knew your employer will let you go without any obligation to call you back, even when there are jobs available?

How fair is it to be paying sometimes more into Employment Insurance premiums than someone working 35 hours a week at minimum wage, but not qualify to get any benefits?

How fair is it to be forced to take a job that pays almost 1/3 less than your previous job and for which you are overqualified simply because you could not secure a permanent job in your field of expertise?

Help us bring back fairness into the workplace.

Support Fair Employment Week to demand fairness for Contract Academic Staff:

Visit our website at www.fairemploymentweek.ca.

Check here for an event in your community (<http://www.fairemploymentweek.ca/events-2/>), and:

- Send an Open Letter to University and College Presidents
- Send an Open Letter to the Honourable Jason Kenney
- Send an Open Letter to your Member of Parliament

Fair for all!

